We provide quality material handling and other industrial transportation options.

Midwest Terminals started in 1999 with a single bulk-product transloading dock in Toledo. We began with a keen focus on transloading and transporting industrial and energy-related products, but have significantly expanded our offerings over the past decade.

Today, our services extend throughout the industrial supply chain: we've become experts in logistical site development and transload goods by water, truck, train, and pipeline.

We'll take care of your industrial transportation needs and can accommodate any project material – all the way to the heart of America.
